To Whom It May Concern,

Anastasia Ignashkina is currently a student in my Honors Chemistry class. I am very impressed with her dedication, sense of responsibility and intelligence. She turns all of her work in early or on time, and it is always of very high quality. She never hesitates to ask questions for further clarification, and she is always trying to connect different concepts and understand how each new topic relates to previous ideas. Anastasia is a deep thinker who never stops trying to understand a concept more thoroughly!

Anastasia works well with others and is always willing to help students who are struggling. She's organized and efficient in the laboratory and turns in well-written reports that show a clear understanding of the concepts being applied. All of this takes extra effort because English is Anastasia's second language, and she's also taking classes in Spanish. She's an excellent student who always wants to do well, and never settles for less.

Anastasia is well rounded and has also worked hard in athletics. She reports that she was a "Master of Sport" in Russia and won championships in synchronized swimming. She is currently very interested in mathematics and the sciences, which she has a strong aptitude for.

Anastasia is a very bright, hardworking student who will succeed in any field she chooses. I highly recommend her for your program. Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Paula J. Blair
